Some big shoes to fill

Apolitical Bob Shipley succeeds Hagnauers

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

Four years ago, Bob Shipley had no political aspirations. Shipley had been active in park district athletics and on the board at Holy Family School, where his children attend classes. But he never even dreamed of running for a citywide political office.

Shipley, 40, was sworn in as Granite City Township Supervisor last week. He was elected to the position April 1 and succeeds long-time supervisor Nellie Hagnauer, who died last year, and his widow Bernie Hagnauer, who assumed the position upon Nellie's death.

"Once you get involved, you see there are some places you can do some good; where you can help people out."

— Bob Shipley

"I really didn't have any political aspirations at all," Shipley said of the time prior to 1993, when Mayor Ron Selph asked him to fill the aldermanic vacancy created by

School officials press for reform

Funding change needed, they say

By Mark Hodapp
Staff writer

Metro East area educators say the time for fair school funding is now. School officials from Madison and St. Clair counties spoke at a press conference Monday in the Regional Superintendent's office. The educators spoke about the improved resources and programs that could be made available if legislators would pass legislation to change how schools are funded.

Their effort is being spearheaded by the Fair School Funding Coalition, which has been designed to keep pressure on lawmakers. Coalition members are the Illinois Federation of Teachers, the Illinois Education Association, the Illinois School Management Alliance, the Illinois Parent Teachers Association and the Illinois Regional Superintendent's Association.

Everett Stuckey, president of the East St. Louis Federation of Teachers, cited the school funding woes in East St. Louis District 189 as an example. He pointed out that District 189 had approximately 28,000 students 25 years ago. There are approximately 13,000 students today.

"It's sad when you begin a program with outdated equipment."

— Steve Balen
School superintendent

Stuckey said he believes the decline in student population can be attributed to East Lou's property tax rate, which is the highest in St. Clair County.

"We have only one nurse for 13,000 students," Stuckey said. "We need $20 million to bring our schools just up to code."

There are also two first grades in District 189 that have 39 and 36 students respectively. Most classes — especially those from kindergarten to third grade — have classes that exceed 30 students.

East St. Louis is not alone facing these dilemmas.

Shafer found in contempt

Judge says he must remove concrete or go to jail

By Michelle Duell
Staff writer

A judge Friday found a Pontoon Beach man in contempt of court and sentenced him to 120 days in jail because a 9-foot-high concrete driveway the man constructed encroaches on his brother's land.

Madison County Associate Judge Robert Henessey told Ron Shafer he would go to jail unless he removed the offensive concrete from his brother's property by Sept. 30. If he complies, the sentence will no longer be in force.

Fred Shafer owns the property being encroached upon. It is adjacent to Ron Shafer's land.

Fred Shafer first sued Ron Shafer in 1992 over a boundary dispute. In court Friday in Edwardsville, he contended that Ron Shafer's driveway violated the judgment from that suit. He asked that his brother be found in contempt

Hepatitis outbreak waning

The recent outbreak of hepatitis A is on the wane, but a health official said a third wave of the disease may occur.

"The numbers are still tapering off, but these things occur in waves sometimes," said Debra Tachschok, personal health services manager for the Madison County Department of Health. "I would expect to see five or six cases in the month of May."

The outbreak first was identified in early March among members of the Berhuto Boys and Girls Club wrestling team.

It is believed team members shared food or drinks sometime during February and the disease was passed on to several of them.

In March, 18 cases were identified in Madison County and two in Macoupin County. Another 18 cases were reported in the area last month as part of a second wave.

Subscription envelopes double as contest entries

The envelope, please.

That was the message from readers about the Journal's semiannual voluntary subscription drive. There will be an envelope tucked inside today's editions of the newspaper.

The envelope is more than a convenient way to send in a voluntary subscription. It also becomes an entry in the Journal's Spring Fling Sweepstakes, a six-week contest in which readers are eligible to win hundreds of prizes, including a $5,000 shopping spree at Venture, a big-screen TV from Best Buy, one of 10 sets of passes to the Riverport Amphitheatre, one of 10 one-year video packages from Blockbuster Videos, or one of 250 sets of four tickets to see a St. Louis Cardinals game.

In addition, 100 winners are selected each week to receive a variety of items, including a Journal sports pack, a Journal window shade, a Journal coffee mug or buy-one-get-one-free coupons for St. Louis Cardinals tickets.

The Spring Fling Sweepstakes is in conjunction with the Journal's voluntary subscription drive. Readers can become voluntary subscribers by using the envelope and sending $19.50 for a one-year subscription, or $10 for a six-month period. Proceeds from the voluntary subscriptions are used to offset a part of the cost of delivering local news, features and sports.

Readers are encouraged to use the comments section on the envelope to make comments about the newspaper. Journal

No to suicide

Observance focuses on prevention of suicide

By Ron Wisdom
Staff writer

Suicide takes the lives of more than 30,000 men, women and children each year, he said.

"Nobody wants to die and they don't have to," Ulerly said.

According to the American Association of Suicidology in Washington, D.C., suicide is the second leading cause of death for adolescents age 15-19. Suicide ranks as the third leading cause of death for all young people, behind only accidents and homicide.

Over the past 35 years the suicide rate among youths has tripled and Ulerly said that is based on a number of things:

"First of all there are a lot more kids than there used to be and second, is that more suicides are being reported now than in the past," he said.

No favoritism? County officials deny unfairness in hiring wife of Mark Von Nida

Madison County officials say they showed no favoritism recently in hiring the wife of Mark Von Nida, who is said to be the leading candidate to become the next county clerk.

Von Nida, administrative assistant to State's Attorney William Haine, is one of 11 Democrats vying to fill the vacancy left by the death of County Clerk Debbie Saltich, a Democrat.

County Board Chairman Rudy Papa is scheduled to appoint a new clerk at a special meeting at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday. The position carries a salary of $55,000 with a $3,500 stipend.

As the meeting approaches, Papa said he has been pressured by factions within the party to name a certain nominee or shy away from another.

"There is pressure, and it will probably just get worse as we get closer to the appointment," Papa said last week.

Nida strictly based on qualifications.

Von Nida has a bachelor's degree in forensic anthropology and has been seeking a job with the coroner's office for years. Two new deputy positions were created this year for the office, and Von Nida was hired for one of them.

"She's had her application in for over two years," Burke said. "She has stopped into the office time and time again."

Postal food drive is Saturday

The National Association of Letter Carriers' food drive is Saturday. The letter carriers, in conjunction with the U.S. Postal Service, the AFL-CIO and the local United Way, will collect non-perishable food and toiletry items on May 10 for distribution to area food banks.

This will be the annual event's third year. In the previous two drives, the letter carriers of Granite City and Madison have collected approximately 38,000 pounds of food thanks to the communities' generosity and hope to make this the best year yet with your help.

To accomplish this goal, they offer three options for those wishing to take part.

Carriers will pick up items left near residential mailboxes as they deliver the mail. Food may be donated at either the Madison or Granite City Main Post Office lobby or parents may give items to their children to deposit at designated areas in their schools this week for the carrier to pick up.

Anyone with questions can ask the carrier on their route or call the Granite City Main Post Office and ask to speak to Mike Eliff or John Caudron. The best time to reach them is between 7:30 and 10 a.m. Monday through Saturday.

SIUE commencement Saturday

James Appleberry, president of the American Association of State Colleges and Universities, will address the spring graduates of Southern Illinois University Edwardsville in commencement ceremonies, Saturday, May 10, in the Vandalia Center.

Chancellor Nancy Belck will confer the "Letter Degree" on the graduates. Appleberry prior to his speaking at both the morning and afternoon programs.

The University's Distinguished Service Award will be presented posthumously by Chancellor Belck to the late Mildred Arnold, who died Jan. 11. Arnold was the founding editor of alumni publications at SIUE and served until Oct. 1, 1996. The award will be accepted by her husband, George, of Edwardsville.

Other awards to be presented in the morning ceremony include: the Paul Simon Teaching Research to Richard Brugam, chair of the department of Biological Sciences; and the teaching Excellence Award to Mark Bolyard, associate professor, biological sciences. Shrine parade here June 4, Fairview May 27

By Kimberly Haas
Staff writer

The annual Anad Temple Shrine parade will march through the streets of Granite City on June 4. Individuals or groups wishing to participate in the parade should call Dan Brown at 452-6215.

And for the first time, the parade will also be held in Fairview Heights.

Parade organizers are looking for a little help from businesses and schools during the May 27 parade in Fairview Heights.

"There is a lack of participation," said Ken Halbrook, chairman of the Shrine's parade.

Last year, the parade was held in O'Fallon while the circus had already moved to St. Clair Square. The circus will once again be held at St. Clair Square from June 6 to 8 with shows at 2 p.m. and 7 p.m. each day.

The circus will be held under the big top on the mall lot behind JC Penney, Halbrook said.

"It seems like that concept really took off," Halbrook said of the circus tent. "Hopefully people liked it."

The circus had been held for one year in an open lot next to Wal-Mart in O'Fallon before moving to Fairview Heights last year. Prior to the move to O'Fallon, the Shrine's circus had been held at Belle-Clair Fairgrounds.

The parade drew 62 units last year, and Halbrook said he hopes to bring as many to the Fairview Heights parade.

Track star raising money for Youth Center Foundation

By Jason White
Staff writer

Jackie Joyner-Kersey wants to give back what she received from growing up in East St. Louis — and one way is raising money for the Jackie Joyner-Kersey Youth Center Foundation.

The Olympic track champion urged St. Clair County judges and lawyers to donate money to the foundation.

Joyner-Kersey, a native of East St. Louis where she got her start in athletics, spoke Friday at the Law Day Breakfast, an annual event of the St. Clair County Bar Association.

The bar association awarded Joyner-Kersey with a Liberty Bell Award. "The Liberty Bell Award honors the lawyer... who best represents a sense of what is important about being an American and living in our free society," Law Day committee chairman Russell Scott said.

Scott said about 400 people attended this year's breakfast — the most ever, he said.

Joyner-Kersey, a star basketball player at the University of California at Los Angeles (UCLA) and later an Olympic gold medalist, was brief but to the point in her acceptance speech.

She spoke on behalf of the Jackie Joyner-Kersey Youth Center Foundation, which has currently raised about $4 million of an estimated $10 million needed for the center scheduled to be built this summer in East St. Louis.

"I don't feel I can make a difference by myself," she said.

"We, as one, can truly make a difference."

The youth center would offer about 14,000 teens from East St. Louis and surrounding communities a wide variety of recreational, educational, athletic and cultural opportunities.

"I do not want them to be a victim of their own society," Joyner-Kersey said. "I do not want them to think East St. Louis is a bad place because there are good people there."

Nino Fenney, a track coach at East St. Louis Lincoln Senior High School, also spoke about the center. "We need to be able to create a safe haven, a place where young people can fully explore what they want to be in life and utilize their leisure time," he said.

For information about the center, write P.O. Box 6349, East

Jackie Joyner-Kersey speaks at Friday's Law Day Breakfast.

St. Louis, Ill. 62201.

In other news, the bar association also honored two other current and former East St. Louis residents.

Bruce Cook, a lawyer, who graduated from East St. Louis Senior High School about 35 years ago, received the first Richard A. Hudlin Award. St. Clair County Associate Judge Annette A. Eckert said the award will be given for "unheralded acts of altruism."

Hudlin, of the prominent Hudlin family in East St. Louis, died at the age of 41 of a cerebral accident, Eckert said.

In his acceptance speech, Cook made a plea for pro bono, or volunteer, work for the poor. "There are two kinds of people that really need lawyers: the very rich... and the very poor," he said.

"The poor" have all kinds of problems that need to be addressed, and they cannot afford to hire us because we're too expensive," he said.

Alton Belle owner shuffles executive staff

ALTON — The shuffling of executives at Argosy Gaming Co. that was announced Wednesday should have little effect on the city, according to a current and a former executive with the company.

"This is a good operation, and we are going to make it better," said H. Steven Norton, who was replaced as president and chief operating officer.

The Alton-based company operates several riverboat casinos, including the Alton Belle, in Norton is being replaced by James Perry, who recently was hired as chief executive officer.

Former Argosy executive Ed Youmard Jr., now personnel director for the city, said the change should have little effect on Alton, which relies heavily on gaming money for funds.

Youmard said such changes are not unusual when the top manager of a company is brought in.

Norton said in an interview Wednesday that he had been asked to stay on in a different capacity and has agreed to do so. He said his duties would involve dealing with regulatory bodies and industry associations, as well as developing new markets.

"It will be the kind of things I will be better suited to. It will be a corporate, rather than an operating capacity."

Norton said much of his background is in the hotel and resort business, with some experience in the gaming industry.

Perry was hired by the Argosy board of directors April 16 after the resignation of J. Thomas Long of Godfrey, one of the founding partners of

The company also said Joseph Uram, executive vice president and chief financial officer, has resigned after four years to pursue other interests.

Dale R. Black, controller, has assumed the role of principal accounting officer.

Perry said he expects to name a new vice president of operations soon.

Granite City School Superintendent Steve Balen said his district was $8 million in debt in 1984 when it closed one of its schools and laid off approximately 200 teachers.

Today, the class sizes at Granite City average between 28 and 30 students. Balen added the equipment used in vocational and technology classes is outdated.

"We are an atypical district," Balen said. "It's sad when you begin a program with outdated equipment," he said.

Jim Rosborg, superintendent of Belleville Grade School District 118, faces similar problems. He pointed out most of the schools in his district were built between 1912 and 1928. District 118 is constructing its first new school built in almost 30 years.

Rosborg said the additional school is needed because its present schools are overcrowded.

District 118 has been on the state's financial watch list since 1991. The state uses this list to warn schools that are headed toward financial difficulty.

Rosborg said District 118 was placed on the watch list because the state failed to reimburse them $400,000 in state aid.

The coalition has drafted a bill that it believes will address these schools concerns. Illinois Federation of Teachers' Secretary-Treasurer Ed Geppert Jr. said.

The bill would:

- ✓ Increase the income tax fund by one percent.
- ✓ Provide $1.1 billion property tax relief.
- ✓ Provide an additional $1.1 for educational funding. The state in its 1996 budget allocated $5.6 billion to education.

To raise the foundation level to provide every school with the resources necessary to provide a high quality education.

✓ To reduce the resource inequities.

✓ To harm no school district.

✓ To move the state toward 51 percent of the funding for schools.

✓ To provide substantial property tax relief.

Briggs said in developing a plan for fair school funding, the education coalition was guided by five basic principles:

✓ To raise the foundation level to provide every school with the resources necessary to provide a high quality education.

✓ To reduce the resource inequities.

✓ To harm no school district.

✓ To move the state toward 51 percent of the funding for schools.

✓ To provide substantial property tax relief.

Inmate pay plan under study

Proposal would force payment for visits to doctors, nurses

A plan to make inmates of the Madison County Jail pay to see a nurse or doctor is still in the works, Sheriff's Department officials said.

Changes to prisoner finances also may someday include charging them for room and board upon conviction, Capt. Robert Hertz said.

St. Clair County Sheriff Merle Justus announced this week he would require inmates to pay from their personal funds when they request medical attention.

According to Justus' plan, inmates without personal funds still will be paid for by St. Clair County.

The personal funds are used to buy snacks, cigarettes and other small items from the jail commissary.

In Madison County, Hertz and Sheriff Bob Churchich have been talking about doing the same thing for more than a year.

"We will do it soon, probably this summer," Hertz said. "We just have to put together the proposal."

Hertz got a favorable legal opinion last year from State's Attorney William Haine regarding the change.

Hertz said the greatest benefit of charging inmates for medical expenses would be discouraging unnecessary complaints.

"We have a lot of frivolous trips to the nurse for headaches and such, simply because we cannot deny an inmate medical attention, if requested," Hertz said.

Justus is charging inmates $18 to see a doctor and $10 to see a nurse, plus expenses related to drugs prescribed.

Hertz said he had planned to charge $10 for the doctor and $5 for the nurse, plus drug expenses.

The Madison County Jail has budgeted $199,000 for medical expenses this year, including $108,000 for hospital expenses and $91,000 for in-house drug costs.

Hertz said the hospital trips, when needed, would be covered by the county in any event.

Hertz noted that inmates, such as Norval Wells, 72, who faces a murder charge, require expensive drugs while held as prisoners in the jail.

Wells was released from prison pending trial more than a year ago because of failing health.

the resignation of Paul Fisk.

"But once you get involved, you see there are some places you can do some good, where you can help people out," Shipley said.

Shipley realizes he has some big shoes to fill. But his size fifteen are a good start.

From the time Nellie Hagnauer was first elected township supervisor in 1961 until his death last year, Hagnauer was credited with building a new township building, initiating nutrition and entertainment programs for seniors, starting a free bus service for seniors and the handicapped, and obtaining millions of federal revenue sharing dollars for such projects as bleachers and lighting for high school athletic fields, playground equipment and other projects.

Shipley doesn't plan to make major changes at the township office. But he does see some areas where services can be improved and expanded, he said.

"I'd like to see the township work for the residents," Shipley said. "Right now, we do a lot for seniors and that's great."

"But I'd like to see more programs for kids and more people take advantage of the building and the bus service. A lot of people just don't know how to take advantage of the bus service."

The free bus service offers at-the-curb pickup for seniors who have doctor appointments or shopping to do. All that is required is a telephone call to the township office, 877-0513, one day in advance to schedule the trip.

Shipley said he plans to apply for grants to purchase three new buses for the township.

"It's a good program and I hope more people take advantage of it," he said.

He is considering reassigning a township employee as an "activity director" to plan programs for youth and civic groups as well as for seniors, he said.

Shipley and his wife Margaret reside at 2457 Hodges Avenue with their three children, Luke, 11, Beth, 9, and Karl, 4. A general foreman at TaraCorp Industries, Shipley is a member of Holy Family Catholic Church, Knights of Columbus and the Eagles. He coaches youth baseball, basketball and football teams, and has served as a scout leader.

of court. "I feel good about the judgment," Fred Shafer said. "He didn't do what the judge ordered him to do (in 1995). This is the second time to court."

Despite the judge's order, though, Fred Shafer said Ron Shafer told someone he was going to get his land surveyed. "That's not what the judge told him to do," Fred Shafer said. "He doesn't understand what the order means. I guess."

Fred Shafer several years ago installed a 6-foot-high chain-link fence that extended 700 feet to separate his property from Ron Shafer's land. Since then, Ron Shafer has continued to pour the concrete driveway along the fence, using wooden pallets and tin as makeshift forms.

As a result of the piles of concrete Ron Shafer has poured and the make-shift forms, portions of the concrete have spilled over onto his brother's property. The driveway now stands taller than that fence.

Another tier of fencing has been added, and Ron Shafer has been pouring concrete against it as well.

In addition to the driveway, Ron Shafer has built a concrete trellis 14 feet high on which he said he plans to grow ivy. That structure is built against Fred Shafer's fence, too.

Ron Shafer also advertises a concrete genealogical rock garden that takes up much of his front yard. It bears family trees formed by rock embedded in the concrete, according to a pamphlet he distributes.

Ron Shafer in late April had approached the Pontoon Beach Village Board of Trustees with a request to complete a concrete sidewalk he has been unable to continue to pour since the trustees initiated a stop order against his pouring of any concrete.

At that time, Bob Barthelmy, the village code inspector, asked how high the sidewalk would be.

Shafer estimated it would have been about 6 feet high by the time it met the front of his house.

The trustees dropped the subject and continued with other business.

In addition to the concrete problem, Ron Shafer is now being ordered by the EPA to clear out five acres of wetlands that he allegedly filled with dirt, because the filled area violates the Clean Water Act.

The EPA has given Ron Shafer 30 days to draft a plan to clear the area and restore it to its natural curves and depth.

After that, he has 30 days to start clearing the wetlands.

•Von Nida

Burke noted Von Nida also is getting a master's degree in sociology.

"I think she'll be a big asset to the office," Burke said the people recently hired by her office are those who have had their applications in for some time.

"They are all young people who are eager, and I think are qualified," she said. "Debbie has taken the courses the last two years on her own and paid for them on her own. The others we hired are emergency medical technicians and have a lot of experience with what happens on this job."

Mark Von Nida said last week that he also thinks his wife was hired strictly because of her qualifications.

He said Thursday that, because of his wife's hiring, he has doubted he will get the job of county clerk because "it's just too much to ask."

Regarding his Edwardsville residency, Von Nida said his roots in Granite City still are strong. In fact, he is seeking a larger house for his two young boys and said he may move back to Granite City soon.

"My house is not for sale, but it may be soon," Von Nida said.

"It is okay if I move sometime in the future?" Von Nida said.

Regarding his driving record, Von Nida acknowledged that some people may find it strange that he had no valid driver's license from 1991 to 1994. But Von Nida said he simply let the license lapse because he lives only four blocks from the county Administration Building.

"I walked to work for years until my children got older and needed rides to day care and things like that," Von Nida said.

He denied ever having had his license suspended or revoked.

Tscheschlok said the first wave struck mostly members of the team but that the second wave included secondary cases, such as friends or family of the original victims.

In the last half of April, only five cases were identified, which prompted health officials to predict the end of the outbreak was near.

Both meningitis patients are recovering, Tscheschlok said.

Tree grafting school set

Have you ever wanted to grow your own high quality pecans and walnuts?

But thought, "It'll take 20 years before I'll see my first nut crop." There is a way to make young trees bear nuts earlier and ensure that they bear thin shelled nuts that ripen in this climate. Learn to graft trees to improved varieties.

Area landowners will have the opportunity to learn these two grafting techniques from Kansas State Pecan Specialist, William Reid, at a grafting school to be held on Thursday, May 15. The school will take place at the Ralph Voss farm, southwest of Carlyle, Illinois at 1 p.m. Each participant will be given the opportunity to try his hand at grafting.

To find the Voss farm, proceed 1.5 miles south of Carlyle, Illinois on Illinois 127. Turn right (west) on Slant Road. The farm is located approximately 3.5 miles west on the north side of Slant Road.

This workshop is being sponsored by the University of Illinois Cooperative Extension Service. Additional information may be obtained from Tony Bratsch, horticulture educator, 692-7700.

Senseless deaths can be stopped

By Ron Wisdom
Staff writer

More than 95 percent of people who commit suicide do so, in large part, because of clinical depression, alcoholism and anxiety disorders, suicide experts say.

However, these senseless deaths can be stopped with the right help, those experts say.

May 4 through 10 has been set as Suicide Prevention Week.

Call For Help Incorporated, a social service agency in Edgemoor that has been providing services to St. Clair County and the Metro East for the past 27 years, wants to make sure people are aware of signs of suicide.

"The most important message that we can get out is that suicide is preventable," said Gary Utery, coordinator of volunteers for the suicide and crisis program at Call For Help. "These people do not have to die. There is help for them. The key is for people to be aware."

According to national statistics, suicide is the third leading cause of death among adolescents, only behind accidents and homicides.

Utery said that there are many risk factors involved in adolescent suicide. Those include but are limited to:

- ✓ Presence of psychiatric disorder — depression, manic-depression, personality disorders, conduct disorders
- ✓ Substance abuse or dependency
- ✓ Expressions/communications of thoughts of suicide, death, dying or the afterlife
- ✓ Poor control over behavior; significant change in behavior
- ✓ Impulsive, aggressive behavior, or rage
- ✓ Previous exposure to others' suicide
- ✓ Severe stress
- ✓ Problems in parental relationships, family instability

"People used to write off youth suicides as 'accidents.'"

The main reason for the increase is that pressure on children is much greater than it used to be, he said.

"Relationships and life choices are much more intense than they used to be for kids," Utery said. "Depression is the number one mental health problem among the youth."

Other facts on youth suicide include:

✓ Suicide rates for those 15-19 years-old have increased 28.3 percent since 1980.

✓ Suicide rates for those 10-14 years-old have increased 120 percent since 1980.

✓ Black males age 15-19 years-old have shown the largest increase in suicide rates among adolescents. Their suicide rate has increased 165 percent since 1980.

✓ Up to 60 percent of high school students report having ideas of suicide.

Also alarming is that while the elderly make up only 13 percent of the population, they account for 25 percent of all suicides.

"Because they (elderly people over 65-years-old) die of so many medical problems anyway, suicide only ranks about 14th as the leading cause of death," Utery said. "However, when an elderly person makes up his or her mind that they want to kill themselves, they are the most lethal of any age group."

Utery said while the rest of the population only completes one out of 10-20 suicide attempts, elderly people complete one out of four tries.

He said that, contrary to belief, only a small fraction of elderly suicide victims have been diagnosed with a terminal illness.

"Once they get older and are not able to do the things they used to do, they become depressed and that can end in suicide," he said. "They also begin to fear that they will become terminally ill and they don't want to be a burden on their family."

Utery said that elderly couples become very depressed at the loss of a long-time companion and don't want to continue life without them.

Other facts on elderly suicide are:

✓ There is one elderly suicide every one hour and 23 minutes.

✓ Eighty-one percent of elderly suicides are male.

Defense class set

Officer Michael Sparks of the Granite City Police Department will present a non-hands-on self defense class for men and women at 7 p.m. Monday, May 12, 1987, at St. John Lutheran Church Fellowship Hall, 2001 St. Clair Avenue. For more information call 451-7788.

Restaurant has reopened

Tony's Restaurant, 1504 Madison Avenue in Granite City, has been reopened by new owners Rob and Tina Leader.

The new owners have remodeled and updated the restaurant, which has long been a landmark in the Tri-Cities area.

There will be breakfast specials and a choice of dinner specials. New items have been added to the menu.

The restaurant is open from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m. weekdays and from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

Carry outs are also available by calling 676-TONY (8669).

Envelope

editors read all of the compliments, criticisms and suggestions, and often make changes in the newspaper based on reader response.

That's another reason the envelope is back. It's been used in the Journals for years, and some readers missed the convenience of having it inserted in the paper. You'll find the envelope inside, as well as details about the Spring Fling Sweepstakes.

Nominations are now open for the Golden Apple Scholars of Illinois program, which recruits high school students who want to become teachers and are committed to making a difference in the lives of Illinois children. All high school juniors and seniors are eligible to be nominated for the program by a teacher, counselor, principal or other non-family adult.

Created by Golden Apple Award-winning teachers, Golden Apple Scholars of Illinois program provides more than 500 hours of classroom experience, supplemental teacher training, mentoring by an award-winning teacher and a $5,000 scholarship loan each year for four years of undergraduate education. In return, Golden Apple Scholars must earn a bachelor's degree and teacher certification at one of 24 participating Illinois universities, participate for four summers of the Golden Apple Scholars Summer Institute, and teach in an Illinois school designated as high need for at least five years after graduation.

Professor's poem published

The latest literary effort of Wayne Lanter, a poet and Belleville Area College philosophy instructor, is of epic proportions. Lanter's "A Float on the Ontagawa," a 200-page poem totaling an estimated 5,000 lines, was one of several recently selected by Edwin Mellen Press to commemorate the 1945 atomic bombing of Hiroshima.

The poem will be published this fall by Mellen for the Hiroshima Memorial in Hiroshima, but also will be available in the BAC Belleville Campus Bookstore and direct from the publisher. "A Float on the Ontagawa" takes its name from the Ontaga River, which feeds the delta on which Hiroshima is built. Chron- icle the journey of a Japanese-American physicist and poet, the story begins during World War II with the narrator's internment in a detention camp in Utah and culminates in his return to Hiroshima in 1946 to search for his brother.

"The narrator had to be someone who could straddle the Pacific," said Lanter, of Freiburg. "Someone who was a part of, yet, separate from, both cultures. The bitterness of it all was the impetus of the whole work."

Requiring a minimum of 80 pages for eligibility, the poem was a new challenge for Lanter, who lengthiest work had previously been a 10-page poem titled "Death in a Polish Woods" in the end, Lanter had to curtail "Ontagawa," but says he could have written another 100 pages an impressive feat considering he had very little knowledge of the region or event before beginning this epic.

19th-century mansion open Sunday for tours

By Glen Sparks
Staff writer

As Mary Lou Daus steps up the ornate wooden staircase at the Beauvais Mansion, her comments turn to old-time fashion and a different time. "This house has always reminded me of Tara of 'Gone with the Wind' fame, Daus says. "You can imagine the ladies strolling up here in their hoop skirts."

A little later, she peers from the balcony and looks to the east. Years ago — before tall buildings dominated the St. Louis skyline — this spot offered a peek at the Mississippi River on a clear day.

Underneath the balcony, a circular driveway cuts across the front entrance. It's black-top today, but a century ago ...

"You can imagine the horses and carriages coming up the circle, waiting for the party to begin," she says.

Daus is the chairwoman of the mansion committee and responsible for much of its recent refurbishing. "You can tell she's a romantic, can't you?" remarks Phyllis Ross, vice president of Memorial Home and in charge of public relations and development.

This 12-room mansion from the 19th century is a great place to a romantic, too. Daus compares it with the nearby Henry Shaw mansion.

"It doesn't have the presence I think that this house has," she says.

OK, Daus may be a bit partisan. Residents can make their own judgments.

The mansion, located at South Grand Boulevard and Magnolia Avenue, is part of the Memorial Home, a non-profit nursing home facility. It will be open for the public to tour, free of charge, from 1 to 4 p.m. Sunday, May 11.

Rene Beauvais, a well-known early St. Louis silversmith and gunsmith, built this Greek Revival house in 1867 on the city's western boundary.

"This was country," Daus says.

Beauvais, his wife and children occupied the house less than a decade, until his death in 1875. Unfortunately, no pictures or personal items exist today of the Beauvais family.

"Rene was not a collector," Daus says. "As opposed to Henry Shaw (whose house is near the Beauvais mansion), who kept everything, paper and every photograph."

Not long after Rene Beauvais' death, the mansion was sold for taxes to the St. Louis Women's Christian Association, a nondenominational Protestant organization that converted it into a home for the elderly.

Memorial Home was dedicated in 1922, its name chosen to remember Civil War veterans.

It was the first home in the United States to admit elderly married couples and single males, many of whom were Civil War veterans. Persons who were brought in surrendered all their assets to the home in exchange for life care.

Tours of the mansion are available by appointment. Call 771-2990 for more information.

A real gamer

Dougherty closes career with stellar hoops season

By Brian Bretsch
Staff writer

Edwardsville High School basketball coach Mike Waldo knew four years ago about the prowess Jim Dougherty had on the football field.

After all, Dougherty's father Tim was moving his family from Peoria to Edwardsville so he could take over as the school's new varsity football coach and athletic director.

Waldo had heard that Jim had all the makings of an outstanding football player and a good baseball player.

It didn't take long for Waldo to realize that Jim had the potential to be an outstanding basketball player as well.

Jim Dougherty, a 6-foot-4 forward, was so outstanding that area large-school coaches voted him the 1996-97 Illinois Journals Class AA Player of the Year.

"Jimmy was not only a very good player for us, he also has very high character and is really a good person," Waldo said. "He is the type of person that you feel fortunate in life to associate with. We will definitely miss the day-to-day interaction with Jimmy."

On the surface, it is hard not to notice Dougherty's staggering numbers this season. He sank 47 percent (71 of 152) of his shots behind the 3-point line while nailing 62 percent of his two-point field goals. He scored 532 total points for an average of nearly 21 points a contest.

At the free throw line, he converted 79 percent (77 of 97) of his shots. He ended his varsity career as the Tigers' fourth all-time leading scorer.

Waldo said Dougherty meant more to the Tigers than just the excellent offensive numbers he contributed. His work on defense was often overlooked, along with all the intangibles that most area coaches will say are difficult to find in a player these days.

"Jimmy really liked to play. His exuberance for the game was contagious," Waldo said.

Jim Dougherty, a standout in basketball, football and baseball at Edwardsville High, averaged 21.0 points per game this season and will attend the University of Missouri on a football scholarship.

"Erick's work ethic is the same, whether it's in practice or a game," said Leancors coach Doug McCrary. "We asked him to do a lot of things for us, like bringing the ball up the floor and guarding the other team's big man inside.

"He created a lot of matchup problems for other teams. He has great hands and he draws a lot of fouls."

CLINT SITZES, Belleville East: The 6-2 Sitzes, a four-year starter, averaged 17.4 points, 3.5 assists and three steals per game. He is East's all-time scoring leader with 1,100 points.

Patton, Baker share Class A honor

By Patrick C. Heston
Staff writer

The yearlong argument from sportswriters and fans over whether Columbia's Ryan Patton or Madison's Maurice Baker was the best Class A player in the Metro East was never resolved and had to wait for the coaches' postseason picks.

But even the coaches could not reach a consensus, naming Baker and Patton the 1996-97 Illinois Journals Class A co-Players of the Year.

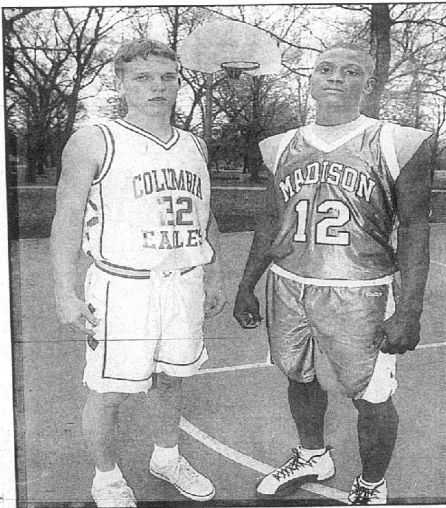

Patton, a 6-foot-1 senior point guard, led the Eagles to a 22-7 record, a 10-0 mark and championship in the Cahokia Conference and a berth to the sectional finals — where Columbia fell 77-57 to Nashville.

"(Patton) was our team leader. I could turn things over to him and know that he'd get the job done."

— Darrell Burd
Columbia coach

"I thought we had a very good season," Patton said. "I would like to have gone farther than we did, but still, it was a very successful season."

Especially so for Patton, who averaged 21.7 points, 5.4 assists and 4.1 steals per game. He finished the season with 113 steals, second best in Columbia High School history and one more than his junior year total. His 555 career steals established an Illinois

Columbia senior Shawn Patton and Madison junior Maurice Baker are the Illinois Journals Class A co-Players of the Year.

Ryan started and scored in all 111 games of his high school career, including his freshman season. He is the only Eagle to post three seasons of 500 or more points, averaging at least 20 points an outing in each of his last three years.

The accolades accumulated by Patton this season are as impressive as his statistics.

He made the all-tournament teams at Litchfield and Freeburg, was the MVP at both the Southern Illinois Coca-Cola Shootout against Pinckneyville and the Pepsi Superfan Shootout against Cairo, and was an all-conference first team selection. Patton was also named second team All-State by the Illinois Basketball Coaches Association and was a first team selection by the Chicago Sun-Times.

Those who simply read statistics and never saw Ryan Patton play may misjudge the senior by believing him to be a ball hog who shoots every time he gets his hands on the ball. But Patton dished out 118 assists on the year, more than five a game, and grabbed the same number of rebounds.

"Ryan is much more balanced than those who've never seen him play may think," said Columbia coach Darrell Burd. "He is a fierce competitor with quick hands

Shawn Patton averaged 21.1 points per game and is Columbia's all-time leading scorer with 2,180 points.

"There's no doubt that he's known for his outside shooting, but he's another player that many people didn't know played good defense," Columbia coach Darrell Burd said. "And he's a good passer. He really has great determination and is a winner. He's scrappy

Guccione stymies Granite kickers in shootout championship

By Patrick C. Heston
Staff writer

The area's top-ranked squads squared off in the championship match of the St. Dominic/Howell North Shootout Saturday evening. No. 1 Incarnate Word Academy rode a first-half goal by Lindsey Jones and withstood a furious second-half rally by No. 2 Granite City to hold off the Lady Warriors 1-0.

It was a sunny but cool evening with a brisk wind blowing North to South. Ironically, both teams dominated when playing into the wind. Incarnate Word (19-0-2) controlled play in the first half, nearly scoring 11 minutes into the match when Karoline Putnam sent a rising scorcher toward the center of the goal from 12 yards out.

GCHS keeper Shannon Roth made a superb play, fisting the ball up and over the goal.

"Shannon really had an exceptional tournament," said Granite coach Gene Baker.

But the Lady Warriors were not so fortunate at the 24:00 mark. That's when Ellen LeFlore smoked one from in close on the left side. Roth knocked down the ball, but it bounced to Jones, who stroked it into the goal for the game-winning margin.

Granite City (10-2-1) nearly scored with 3 1/2 minutes left in the first half when Jaime Dellbringe and Michelle Montgomery teamed up to send keeper Beth Guccione sprawling. Guccione, the tournament's Most Valuable Player, ended up inside the goal, along with most of the ball, but the entire ball never crossed the goal line. The play preserved the shutout and kept Incarnate Word in front 1-0 at the half.

The teams switched goals — and momentum — in the second half.

The Lady Warriors came out in the attack and kept the ball on their half of the field most of the 10 minutes.

Granite City had numerous second-half opportunities, but the best chances came between the 50 and 60 minutes marks.

At 50:55, Michelle Montgomery's corner kick curved toward the center of the goal, where several Lady Warriors waited to head it in. But again, Guccione came up big, leaping high in the crowd to grab the ball.

Then at 59:05, Dellbringe sent a centering pass to Erika Todd, who fed Felicia Mohsen, whose shot handcuffed Guccione. The next few seconds were a struggle between the Lady Warriors, who were continuing to lack the ball, and Guccione, who kept getting a hand on it.

"Their goalie is extremely good," Baker admitted. "She was the difference in this game. You have to beat her. She will not beat herself. She gives you nothing, absolutely nothing."

Granite's last chance came at 77:30 when Brandi Ficker's shot off a partial breakaway missed left. "It was a game of halves," said Baker. "The first half was all them, and the second half was all us. We've been too much of a second-half team this year and not enough of a first-half team. That must change."

"Toxie (Simpson) and Jaime had great games tonight," Baker said. "Crystal (Timmons) and Shannon both had a great tournament. Michelle Montgomery was unbelievable all tournament long. She plays with a fire and a passion. She made some incredible runs up field. She made many of our scores possible. And of course, she, along with Connie (Meyers), deserved to be on the All-Tournament team. I was glad to see that they were chosen."

Montgomery and Meyers made the all-star squad out of Pool C. Guccione and Amy Timmerman of Incarnate Word were all-stars from Pool A.

The Lady Warriors must quickly regroup for three games this week. GCHS traveled to Belleville East on Tuesday, then host Alton on Thursday and powerful Chatham Glenwood at 11 a.m. Saturday.

and a quick read on defense, and he has superior ballhandling skills. He is also a very bright young man — in the top 5 percent of his class — and that carries over onto the basketball court.

"He was our team leader. I could turn things over to him and know that he'd get the job done. He's done it all academically and athletically, and we're going to miss him at Columbia. He has been fun to watch and to coach."

Despite the recognition he has received for his basketball skills, Patton is quick to give credit to his teammates. His twin brother Shawn, last year's Illinois Journals Class A Player of the Year, was a first-team all-area selection this season.

"My brother and I did the scoring — that was our role on the team," Ryan Patton said. "But the other players on the team were the ones setting screens and picking the right rebounds — those things that have to be done for the points to come."

Patton is also high on his Madison counterpart. "I just saw Baker play one game the one at state, but that's all it took for me to be impressed," he said. "He is extremely quick on both offense and defense, is a true team leader and a great all-around ballplayer."

Baker, a 6-6 junior point guard, was the team leader of a Trojans squad that went 25-7 and narrowly lost to the state's No. 1-ranked small school in the Class A quarterfinals in March at Peoria. Normal University High defeated Madison 68-60 and went on to place third at state.

Everyone on the team would have liked to have gone farther, Baker said. "The loss at Peoria was difficult to take. Personally, I would love to have had a shot at that state championship game."

But, without Baker, Madison would have been nowhere near that game, not to mention Peoria.

Unlike Patton, Baker's role on for Madison was not to shoot and score, though he did just that, averaging 17 points per game on 50 percent shooting from the field — 46 percent from 3-point range — and 81 percent from the line. He also averaged 6.6 rebounds, 5.4 assists and four steals an outing.

Baker's rebound total is particularly impressive, since only five players among Class A Sweet Sixteen teams exceeded his figure of 204 boards, and they were forwards and centers. Baker's combination of 204 rebounds and 167 assists far exceeds the totals put up by some of the state's more honored guards, including Jeremy Stanton of Normal University, Shawn Jepson of Spring Valley Hall, Travis Lewis of Williamsfield, Bill Heisler of Warsaw and both Kelly Cruser and Brad Fischer of Nashville.

"I consider myself a balanced player," Baker said. "I went out and did what the team needed me to do each game — scoring, or steals, or rebounds, or assists — whatever. There were games I didn't have to score, but I still went out and did the other things that needed to be done for us to win."

But Baker's chief role was as team leader, and the Trojans' squad of mostly seniors looked to him for that leadership.

"At the beginning of the year, I wasn't sure if Maurice could be the team leader," Madison coach Al Collins said. "I knew he was a talented player and he knew that nobody was going to stop him out there. That was his thinking."

With Baker back for his senior season at Madison and Patton playing at nearby Washington University, area fans will have ample opportunity to see the two standouts in action again next season.

seniors. It was wonderful watching him grow. I watched him become very deliberate, very calm and cool under pressure. I watched him start wanting the ball and watched the other players start going to him in the crowd. That's when I knew he could get the job done."

Baker was an All-State selection and was tabbed by some coaches and journalists as the premier guard in all of southern Illinois. And best of all, as far as the Madison faithful are concerned, he's back in a Trojans uniform for yet another year.

Baker credits his coaches and teammates with his success.

"I played with confidence," he said, "because I knew the quality of players I was on the floor with."

Baker also had praise for Patton.

"The first time I saw him, I knew he was a great player," Baker said. "He played with a lot of confidence on the court. And he knew that nobody was going to stop him out there. That was his thinking."

With Baker back for his senior season at Madison and Patton playing at nearby Washington University, area fans will have ample opportunity to see the two standouts in action again next season.

only season with Venice, but the stats don't tell the story of what the versatile 6-6½ senior meant to the 19-10 Red Devils. "Marcus was the coach on the floor," said Venice coach Clinton Harris Jr. of Allen, a transfer from CBC in St. Louis. "He was our leader in every sense of that word. He made the other players play better."

Allen's size and strength made him an intimidating force underneath, both offensively and defensively, but his quickness and ballhandling skills allowed him to take his game away from the basket to the perimeter. It made him extremely difficult to guard.

"Marcus could play any position on the floor, and did," Harris said.

ADAM MODDRELL, Freeburg: A 6-8, 195-pound senior, Moddrell averaged 17.6 points and 7.3 rebounds per game while shooting 56 percent from the field and 68 percent from the free throw line this year.

"Adam can score from the outside as well as the inside, which comes from his background playing AAU ball," said Freeburg coach Fred Blumberg. "He played with bigger guys, so he was forced to move outside and play other positions."

"It seemed like every game we could count on him for 15 points and seven rebounds."

•Class AA

years, he's averaged about 18 points a game," McCrary said. "We didn't always have to look for him to score. He's a pretty good defensive player and he has quick hands."

JOSH HELBIG, Belleville East: A 6-5 junior and a three-year starter, Helbig averaged 15.5 points, five rebounds, three assists and three steals per game.

"Josh was hot and cold, but at times he showed flashes of brilliance," McCrary said. "He can shoot off the dribble and he can shoot the 3-pointer and post up. He played a more natural position this year in that he was facing the basket."

•Dougherty

"I think the guys always felt like Jimmy was really a team player. I know he was a big scorer for us but I think our players always realized that he wasn't out for his own glory, he was just trying to win games."

"Jimmy was the kind of guy who made all the guys on our team better. As the year went on, he drew a lot of defensive attention. He would make good cuts without the ball. He would set screens to get other players open. He really sacrificed a lot."

Dougherty, who is headed to the University of Missouri on a football scholarship, played through plenty of adversity the last two seasons.

A year ago, he got a late start to the season because of a cracked bone in his ankle. He also missed some playing time with an elbow problem. Both injuries came back before doctors expected to become an instant contributor.

This season, he got a late jump because of a separated shoulder he suffered in football. He also came back the very next game after taking an elbow in the mouth from Granite City's Dustin Brewer and losing front teeth.

"He sure had his share of adversity this year," Waldo said. "He had his share of good times. I think he dealt with either situation, whether it was the adversity or accolades, with grace and high character."

During his four years at Edwardsville, Dougherty gave the coaches he played for and his teammates many memories to cherish.

The game-winning shot he sank his sophomore year against Centuria in the Carbondale Super-Sectional catapulted the Tigers to the Class AA state tournament and ranks as Dougherty's greatest basketball legacy.

Last season, the Tigers upset top-seeded Collinsville in the sectional semifinals at SIUE.

The Tigers were on the brink of elimination when they trailed by six points with less than 20 seconds left. Dougherty made one of the three baskets that forced overtime, where the Tigers eventually won.

"Jimmy made a lot of good shots for us over the years," Waldo said. "I think what I will remember and admire the most about Jimmy was his consistency and his day-to-day work ethic."

HOROSCOPE

Wednesday, May 7

The sun forms a lucky trine with Mars, lending enjoyment to those everyday tasks. Venus and the moon conjunct, allowing us to manifest our feelings in most endearing ways. Some time in the afternoon, as the moon enters happy-go-lucky Gemini, a sense of levity sweeps over us. Mischievous becomes irresistible. Competition brings out your very best — so when friends wage a contest, join in.

ARIES (March 21-April 19). Develop a winning attitude. Challenge yourself by setting achievable goals. Making a commitment could further your career later but will help the community now. Friends gain understanding through playful banter.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). Investments receive a substantial bonus. Expressing yourself through art brings you into contact with potential sweethearts. Home affairs juggle two or three challenging tasks. Share political beliefs with children without bias.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). You thrive in a fast-paced atmosphere. Keep up with your belongings, or pare down — creative energy is being wasted on unnecessary material goods. Don't succumb to anything that will damage your reputation.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). Celebrate change — now, a romantic meeting is more probable. Let worries subside. You see others making shady deals, but keep far away. Major decisions can wait. Singles: love at work will surprise and delight you.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). For permanent, ongoing success, don't rest on your laurels right now. Let senior company members advise you, but don't necessarily heed their words. Several minor duties, opportunities or inquiries come your way.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (May 7). Home in on your spiritual power source. You are unstoppable in the next three months. Use contacts that have fallen by the wayside to climb the ranks in June. Take a break in August, when a getaway leads to romance. Deals of all kinds are sealed in September, including marriage. Additions to the family are possible in March 1998.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). New partnerships replace old ones. Giving in to a friend's suggestion makes for a better time than you think. Leave messages for distant family. Curb a feeble mood by chumming up to an Aries. The evening favors romance.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). Your boss finds a new way to positively motivate you. Clean extra rooms or closets — something you need is tucked behind and forgotten. Get out of the house tonight. Offer your services to someone who is temporarily immobile.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). Reversals could convince you to stay in a present job or a current career, just a little while longer. Analyze romance, and draw conclusions. Travel kills two birds with one stone. Your love does tricks for your attention.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). Your talents are far reaching, but you've placed your emphasis on the ones that are the least likely to succeed. Family offers more help than demands — take advantage now because tomorrow, the tables turn.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). Stop trying to follow trends — start your own. Try your spouse's ideas before saying they won't work. Affairs of the heart are reinforced by long-distance calls. A brisk evening walk is inspirational.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). You can find fortune in a newly serious attitude about work and love commitments. Love is much more mature and less erratic. You are reassured of a friend's love when he or she cancels plans to be with you.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). You've felt hesitant to compete with those you care for, such as co-workers and companions. Your sense of winning has been thwarted by a fear of losing trusted friends. Face fear, and claim your success.

The facts about Lawn Watering from the experts at

FRANK'S NURSERY & CRAFTS

Where Beautiful Things Begin

Now that we're well into the month of May, the all-time familiar subject of lawn watering has come up again. We've discussed this several times in the past, but since it's such an important topic, it's worth a little refresher.

How often, how long, when? These three questions always pop up when the conversation gets on lawn watering. Various theories abound, and we'll clear things up once again.

How often? Once a week is best, provided you give the lawn a good, thorough soaking. By thorough, we mean an inch to an inch and a half of water. The roots of the plant need moisture, and if you merely water lightly every day, the roots won't get wet. And dry roots will lead to dry grass.

How long? Easy. Place a coffee can or two in the sprinkler's path. Stop the sprinkler after fifteen minutes and measure the depth of the water in the can. Multiply by four and you'll know how much water your sprinkler delivers in an hour. Of course wind, water usage inside the house and evaporation will play a role, but it'll give you a general guideline.

When? This can be the toughest of all. Watering during mid-afternoon heat won't help much, although it may appear the lawn is craving water. If you water in the afternoon, too much water will evaporate away before it has a chance to reach the roots. This leads to wasting water and longer sprinkling.

Evening is a favorite time for many, since it's convenient. Although it's better than mid-day, it's still not ideal. Water can linger on the grass blades too long, inviting diseases. That doesn't leave much time left except for the middle of the night or early morning. And that's the best.

Unfortunately for many, it's not the most practical. Getting up at three in the morning to water the lawn doesn't cut it. You could, however, purchase a programmable water timer or two and it'll take care of that. Set out a couple of sprinklers at your convenience and they'll come on at the pre-set time. Make sure the sprinklers are securely in place, though; you don't want one to tip over while it's running in the middle of the night.

Also, make sure that the sprinklers aren't too close to houses. A gust of wind popping up can send water into an undesirable location, such as an open window. It's a good idea to run the sprinkler in its planned location for a little while, watch what happens and adjust accordingly.

Naturally, if any water restrictions are put into effect, they must be strictly adhered to.

Wise water use benefits everyone. And proper lawn watering is using water as wisely as you can.

Tired of replacing hose couplings after they've been driven over? Pick up a hose reel. You can wind the hose up after each use and it'll be out of the way, off the lawn and/or driveway.

You can purchase a free-standing reel or one that can be attached to the house or a fence. Either one will keep the hose neatly stored, out of everyone's way.

The members met in Collinsville for dinner April 10 and then return to Granite City for their regular meeting.

Prayer Day a success in the area

By Kimberly Haas
Staff writer

Strangers and friends alike gathered outside of the Fairview Heights Municipal Complex for the National Day of Prayer.

About 30 people attended the event, which was just one of many across the country Thursday.

The small group celebrated by singing and reciting prayers of inspiration during the 30-minute ceremony. Around the nation, individuals gathered at the same time at various locations, celebrating the day of prayer in their own way.

In Fairview Heights, residents, city, and church officials took part in the event and were issued a challenge by Rev. Doug Nicely, who officiated over the ceremony.

"The challenge is from the National Day of Prayer office in Washington, D.C.," Nicely said. "They want you to adopt a leader; somebody to pray for. It's a prayer project."

Nicely said the leader could be someone like an elected official, who could be communicated with through postcards over the next 12 months.

The National Day of Prayer is held on the first Thursday of every May, Nicely said, and the day was designated as such over 10 years ago.

The Fairview Heights Clergy Association has been observing National Day of Prayer for the last couple of years, Nicely said.

"It's been very well received. We appreciate Mayor (Gail) Mitchell's openness and allowing us to have this on the front steps of City Hall," Nicely said.

SIUE to conduct music workshops

The department of music at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville will conduct music workshops during May, June, and July, as part of SIUE's SummerArts '97 program.

Workshops may be taken for undergraduate and graduate credit, or on a noncredit fee basis. Workshops of varying times and lengths are as follows:

➤ One-Week (or less) Workshops:

➤ Two-Week Workshops:
➤ The Arts and the French Revolution, May 27-June 6: Conducted by Music Professor Steve Brown and Historical Studies Professor Ed Jacobitti, this workshop looks beyond the events of the revolution and on to its intellectual and cultural background, while viewing works of arts as active players in creating and sustaining of the revolutionary moment.

➤ Music in the Middle, June 9-19: Assistant Music Professor Renee Eaton leads this workshop in general music methods and techniques for middle school and junior high music educators. Can be taken for in-service or graduate credit.

➤ Instrument Maintenance and Repair, June 16-27: Technician Barbara Hunter leads this shop-laboratory course in the selection, adjustment, maintenance, and repair of wind and percussion instruments, designed to help elementary and secondary band directors diagnose common problems and to learn to deal with emergencies.

THIS IS HOW A DESPERATE DRUG ADDICT SEES YOUR CHILD.

He doesn't love the energetic, young mind that's underneath the cassette recorder. He doesn't see the much-loved kid on the block that's inside the leather jacket. All he sees is the cassette recorder and the jacket, and how to get them for his next fix.

But the drug addict's real blindness is that he never sees the heartache he will cause when he leaves his child lying on the street.

You must fight back. You can make a difference. Start now by calling 1-800-WE PREVENT and we'll send you information on successful ways to join with others to protect your children from crime in your neighborhood.

Fight back against drug-related crimes. Call 1-800-WE PREVENT.

Wise Ways

Dropping spice or garlic into oil is not a good long-term plan in home kitchen.

INSIDE

Heart-y Bites

When family fetes Mom at the fill-'er-up buffet, enjoy the special occasion with a simple eating plan in mind.

INSIDE

Toss together a salad at the last minute with a combination of rice, greens, other vegetables and an easy salad dressing with a hint of Oriental flavor.

Lively Taste

A broad range of Mediterranean flavors includes garlic, basil, oregano, parsley, bay leaves, fennel, marjoram and rosemary. Besides flavoring savory tomato sauce and pasta, they can be paired with fresh lemon juice and sprinkled on steamed vegetables and fish.

Health & Fitness

Medicine Chest

Resources for treating depression, even on a short-term basis, is available at all ages.

INSIDE

Fresh Picks

From the 'Asparagus Festival Cookbook' (Celestial Arts) comes Warm Oriental Asparagus Slaw. Cook and coarsely shred 1 pound fresh asparagus. Mix with 2 cups each shredded red cabbage and shredded napa cabbage, and 1/4 cup each diced red onion, diced water chestnuts, chopped roasted peanuts and chopped fresh cilantro. Heat 3 tablespoons vegetable oil with 1 tablespoon each sesame oil, soy sauce, seasoned rice wine vinegar and dry sherry, and 1 clove garlic, pressed, until hot. Toss hot dressing with asparagus mixture. Garnish with sesame seeds. Serve immediately.

Big Fat Tip

The original fat level in ground meat makes a difference in how much fat can be removed. With each reduction from regular ground beef to 20 percent fat, 15 percent fat and 10 percent fat, the fat content of a standard 3-ounce portion is reduced by 3 grams. The leaner the meat, the smaller the effect. Blotting each side of a burger 30 seconds on paper towels lowers fat about 1 to 2 grams, while the fat content of drained, crumbled meat on paper towels may drop at least 4 grams. Rinsing crumbled ground beef in a fine strainer or colander reduces fat content in each three-ounce portion at least 4 grams.

Future Shop

Here is the U.S. take on steak, according to the National Cattlemen's Beef Association. Steak is most often eaten as a base dish, as is rather as an ingredient in other dishes. The most popular steaks bought for home cooking are sirloin, round, porterhouse/T-bone, and chuck. The fastest-cooking steak, thin-cut round tip (1/8- to 1/4-inch thick), is often called 'sandwich,' 'breakfast' or 'minute' steak. The most economical steak comes from the chuck area, the most expensive from the tenderloin and short loin. Leanest steaks include cuts from the round or the loin.

Mothers come in all sizes, shapes and relationships, but their loving ways make them like no other person on earth. They put up with shoes insistently put on the wrong feet, smudgy fingerprints on their heart and favorite sofa, and don't ask to be called Ms. Wonderful through it all.

Still, if someone wants to paste a little gold star on their lapel on Mother's Day, they don't object.

To celebrate multiple generations of moms a family often takes them out to a restaurant for a meal on Mother's Day, then settles back at one home for dessert. Or maybe the routine is brunch, with the rest of the day free to be enjoyed individually.

For either event, the accent is on making an easy day of it for the cook and an enjoyable time for everyone.

These recipe ideas appeal to those who watch their calories at the same time they keep an eye on children. They use cherries in one form or other, too.

If an extra gift is in order, here are a few ideas:

- Appeal to a gardening mom with a new tool or colorful pot. A few flowers ready to plant in the garden add color and surprise. Herbs give the imaginative cook fresh incentive.

- Give her an IOU for time off, plus a bath soap, after-shower spritz, spray scent or lotion in a colorful trinket box. Pack it in poppurri for aroma.

- For the healthy-spirited mom who stores snacks in her desk, pack an insulated lunch bag with individual boxes of raisins, low-fat crackers, pretzels and hard

Kids' Cuisine STRAWBERRY TART

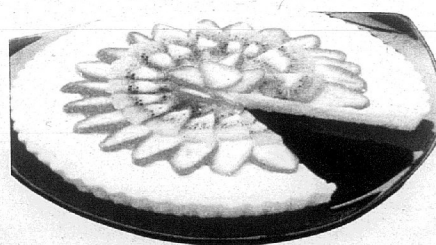

With help, kids can make a simply gorgeous dessert for Mother's Day, particularly when it is a strawberry delight.

Key Lime Strawberry Tart: Unfold, flour and bake 1 refrigerated pie crust according to package directions for a one-crust baked shell, using a 9-inch pie pan or, as shown, a 9-inch tart pan with removable bottom. Cool completely. Combine 3/4 cup sweetened condensed milk and 1/4 cup lime juice. Mix well. Fold in 1 cup whipped cream or whipped topping. Spread in cooled crust. Refrigerate 2 to 3 hours. Just before serving, top with 1 cup sliced strawberries and 2 kiwifruit, peeled, cut in half and sliced.

Strawberry Shortcake Tarts: Unfold and flour 2 refrigerated pie crusts according to package directions. Cut four 4-1/2-inch circles from each crust. Press circles floured-side down into 8 ungreased muffin cups, letting sides gently overlap edges. Generously prick bottom and sides with fork. Bake in preheated 450 degree oven 9 to 11 minutes until light golden brown. Cool completely. Combine 1-1/2 cups sliced strawberries with 1/4 cup strawberry preserves and spoon into tarts. Garnish with whipped topping or cream.

Chocolate Berry Dessert Pizza: Unfold and flour 1 refrigerated pie crust according to package directions. Place floured-side down on cookie sheet. Fold edge under 1/2 inch, then flute or pinch edge. Generously prick crust with fork. Bake in preheated 450 degree oven 9 to 11 minutes until light golden brown. Cool completely. Beat 1 package (3 ounces) cream cheese, softened, with 2 tablespoons sugar and 1/3 cup hot fudge topping until smooth. Spread on cooled crust. Refrigerate at least 1 hour. At serving time, top with 3/4 cup sliced strawberries.

Private Label Test Run

President's Choice pasta at Schnuck Markets comes in a variety of shapes.

Eating 'Italian' means hot pasta for many meals

One of this week's testers of President's Choice pasta is like many lovers of Italian food. One night a week is "pasta night" at his home.

He took home a 16-ounce package of Splendido tricolor rotini. His wife made her regular big-on-tomatoes and light-on-meat sauce as their Monday-night special.

"It wasn't sticky, like some pasta gets. It wasn't clumpy," he said. "Pasta is kind of pasta and we didn't see a lot of difference, so we figure that if the price is right, we'd buy it."

The price for each 16-ounce package is $1.19. The product also comes in plain rotini and different thicknesses of spaghetti. President's Choice is considered a premium-quality product. Only pasta under the Schnuck's label cost less at regular price.

The shapes were added incentive for his two-year-old son Tom to enjoy the meal.

"He thinks shapes are great and easy to pick up with his hands," he added.

The leftovers were enough for a second meal, which was reheated without any problem with the pasta.

Another tester tried linguine. She added a light meatless cream sauce.

The third tester, this one for farfalle (bow ties) did not have as much success when she did not add oil.

Medicine Chest

Depression may affect women as age progresses

Depression affects more women than men. Experts suspect as many as six million older adults may suffer from depression, yet only 10 percent ever receive treatment. This is most likely because patients themselves do not recognize the symptoms or mention them to their physician.

It is often difficult to set apart normal life occurrences from true depression. Life progresses to offer more challenges and difficulties. Often these are viewed as a normal part of life and not a medical condition requiring treatment.

Actually, as many as 25 percent of nursing home patients may experience major depression. For women, living longer offers more opportunities to experience death of a spouse, being alone and chronic illness, which increases their exposure to depression.

Researchers have found older adults respond quite well to treatment. More than half respond to antidepressant drug treatment and those with mild to moderate depression benefit from psychotherapy.

Drugs recently marketed are more effective because they better target specific areas of the brain. While the data are promising, drug therapy is not without risks.

• If she likes to entertain, run with the idea of impending warm weather to give her a big plastic tray for carrying multiple dishes to the patio, a new tablecloth, an insect-repelling candle or a straw hat so she can cover her face when she naps in the hammock while her family fixes dinner.

• A booklet of IOUs makes sense, no matter how old or young the giver is. Maybe they promise a day taking an older mom to visit cousins, baby-sitting for younger children in the family, packing one's own lunch for a week or paying for a phone call home from college without parental aid.

• Drink up a cool drink, like Cherry Fizz, while enjoying photos of a recent trip or family event.

In a blender, puree 1 cup cherry juice blend and 2 cups frozen unsweetened cherries until smooth. Add 1 can (6 ounces) undiluted frozen lemonade concentrate and 6 to 8 ice cubes. Blend until smooth. Pour into 2-quart pitcher. Stir in 1 can (12 ounces) lemon-lime carbonated beverage, chilled. Serve immediately. Garnish with oranges slices and maraschino cherries.

• A spicy fruit combo makes a refreshing salad or dessert. Start by combining 1 cup dried tart cherries, 1 can (11 ounces) mandarin orange sections, drained, and 2 kiwifruit, peeled and sliced.

Heart-y Bites

Chef Stuffierface's buffet — once — won't kill me quick

Mother's Day in my family comes amid birthdays, anniversaries and other celebratory events. To recognize all of them, we usually forgo cooking and head for an all-you-can-eat lunch. This year Dad made reservations at a favorite spot, Chez Stuffierface.

I recall the last brunch I attended there. I was most uncomfortable after large amounts of rich food.

This Sunday I vow to follow a better strategy. My first trip to the bountiful table will be for shrimp cocktail and smoked trout surrounded by baby greens with a drizzle of my favorite Roquefort dressing. I'll pass up macaroni salad, bagels with cream cheese and drizzly oil-based salads. I won't miss them, because they come a dime a dozen anyway.

My brother asks for an omelet prepared by Monsieur Stuffierface himself. Tempted, I'll ask him to share a taste, which will be better for both of us than single servings.

Next trip will be a main course. Because I can't resist lobster swimming in cream sauce, I won't even try. I'll take enough for two bites and do the same with veal parmesan, another favorite. Steamed veggies, wild mushrooms, a homemade roll and an interesting five-grain pilaf will generously fill my plate.

After this I probably will no longer be hungry, but the dessert table will be calling my name louder than my full tummy. I will choose a very decadent chocolate-something. After all, this is a special occasion and one rich dessert in a week of sensible eating will not result in overnight heart disease or weight gain.

Leaving the food fest fully satisfied, I'll take a brisk walk to check out the May flowers. If I eat any dinner, it will be light and much later. Monday morning I'll wake up to happy memories of visiting my family, not stuffing myself and the delicious taste of my sample of fudge mousse torte.

Should Chef Stuffierface be booked for Mother's Day, here is an easy pasta salad from "Cook Healthy, Cook Quick" (Oxmoor House, 1994) to serve as a main course at a home brunch.

Wise Ways

Flavored oil can be made to use one day at a time

Flavored oils have been used for centuries in Italy and France, but only within the last several years have migrated into American kitchens. For the last several years these oils have been available in gourmet and specialty stores at a premium price and on upscale restaurant tables.

Because of their popularity, many calls have come into my office to learn how to make them at home for gift-giving.

Unfortunately, I cannot recommend making and storing flavored oils at room temperature due to the risk of the deadly botulinum toxin that can develop in oils containing garlic, peppers or fresh herbs.

Clostridium botulinum bacteria, widespread in the environment, can be found on various kinds of produce, including peppers and garlic. The botulinum spores thrive in a warm, no-air, low-acid environment. Homemade flavored oils with submerged vegetables or herbs provide these exact conditions.

The U.S. Food and Drug Administration and Department of Agriculture recommend consumers not prepare any homemade vegetable or spice in oil, margarine or butter for extended storage. Protective additives used in commercially prepared flavored oils are not available for homemade products.

Having said all this, you probably think you never should make flavored oils. Actually, they can be made fresh in small amounts, refrigerated and used the same day to be safe.

The oil of choice for flavoring is olive oil. Surprisingly, the lower-cost "pure" olive oil with its milder flavor is a better choice than more expensive extra-virgin oil, where the strong flavor may mask flavors being added.

Flavored oils can be used in virtually any recipe calling for oil. However, high heat destroys the flavor, so I find they work best in non-cooked uses such as salad dressings and marinades. They provide a savory base for sauces, too.

For example, a small amount of roasted garlic oil can be used on sautéed vegetables, added to mashed potatoes and tossed with bread cubes to make croutons. The bonus is the baked garlic is also makes delicious, mellow garlic paste for spreading on crusty slices of bread.

Certified family and consumer scientist Carol Schlitt is nutrition and wellness educator with the University of Illinois Cooperative Extension Service at the Edwardsville Extension Center.

ROASTED GARLIC OIL

- 6 large heads garlic
 1 cup pure olive oil

Preheat oven to 375°. Cut one-third off top of each garlic head. Place in baking pan just large enough to hold garlic. Pour olive oil over garlic. Cover with aluminum foil. Bake in preheated oven 45 minutes. Uncover. Bake about 10 minutes until browned.

Carefully pour off oil. Use to flavor mashed potatoes, vegetables and croutons. Squeeze garlic from skin and spread the paste on bread.

Good Health

Sandwiches a healthy item at lunchtime

Sandwiches have the potential to serve up sound nutrition. They hold complex carbohydrates and fiber in bread, protein and other nutrients in the filling, and lots of vitamins, minerals and fiber in the flavorful, crunchy vegetable add-ons. White bread sandwiches loaded with high-fat bologna, cheese and mayonnaise are a waste of time and calories.

Here is a plan for building savory sandwiches that are both hearty and healthy.

• Bread: In place of bland white bread, use whole wheat, rye, pumpernickel or multi-grain varieties. They provide rich flavor and 1 to 2 grams fiber per slice, compared to about one-half gram in white bread. Whole wheat pita pockets provide fiber and a pouch for holding whole-some vegetable additions. Not all breads that are dark in color with healthy sounding names are high in fiber. Check the label for whole-grain ingredients.

• Condiments: Mayonnaise is not sandwich glue. A single tablespoon of mayonnaise contains 11 grams fat, almost twice the amount in all the rest of a lean turkey breast sandwich. Opt for a fat-free or reduced-fat version instead, or use naturally low-fat mustard, ketchup, salsa or horseradish for zing.

• Filling: Choose lean, all-meat, chicken or turkey white meat instead of fatty, processed lunch meat. For a change of pace, replace plain poultry with highly-flavored peppered or herb-roasted turkey breast. When choosing cold cuts, look for brands labeled "low-fat," since these have no more than three grams fat per two-ounce serving. Stick to a single portion in a sandwich. Even lean roast beef isn't a bad choice with only 15 percent of its calories coming from fat, compared to the 45 percent found in some hams.

• Vegetables: Add crunch, taste and nutrition to sandwiches with greens and other colorful veggies. Replace iceberg lettuce with mild Boston, romaine or red-leaf lettuce. More intense flavor and beta-carotene comes with shredded cabbage, watercress, arugula, escarole, radicchio, spinach or Swiss chard. Grilled or stir-fried vegetables add exotic flavor, so be daring and try pan-sizzled soy-marinated zucchini, mushroom or eggplant slices in a whole wheat pita.

BELLEVILLE AREA COLLEGE

For quality, convenience and affordability, BAC is the smart place to be.

Appetizers are basic to party food. Dishes should be as attractive to the eyes as to the palate, because they give guests a first impression of fun to come.

From nachos to pate, this art of the food needs to be not only delicious, but also easy to make. The best ones can be prepared several hours or even weeks ahead.

Mushroom-Leek Pinwheels can be made completely in advance and frozen up to two weeks before baking.

First, saute mushrooms, leeks and garlic in butter, then simmer in chicken stock. Combine this mixture with cream cheese and spread over sheets of puff pastry from the freezer department in the supermarket. Roll the dough and filling into logs, then slice and bake.

Savory Garlic and Blue Cheese Bread is an extraordinary twist on garlic bread. Brush halves of Italian bread with garlic butter, then add an array of blue cheese, thinly sliced sweet red onion, olives and a sprinkling of rosemary. This savory appetizer can be assembled a day ahead and baked just before serving.

MUSHROOM-LEEK PINWHEELS

- 1/4 cup (1/2 stick) unsalted butter
- 1 1/2 lb. fresh mushrooms, finely chopped
- 1/2 cup chopped leek
- 1 tsp. finely chopped garlic
- 3/4 cup chicken broth
- 12 oz. cream cheese, cut in pieces
- 1/2 cup chopped fresh parsley
- 1/2 tsp. salt
- 1/4 tsp. freshly ground pepper
- 1 pkg. (17 1/4 oz.) frozen puff pastry (containing 2 sheets pastry), defrosted
- 6 strips bacon, crisply cooked, crumbled

In large skillet over medium-high heat, melt butter. Saute mushrooms 3 to 4 minutes, stirring frequently.

Add leek and garlic. Continue sauteing 2 to 3 minutes.

Add broth. Cook over high heat 5 to 6 minutes longer until all liquid has evaporated. Reduce heat to low. Stir in cream cheese. Cook, stirring constantly, until cheese melts. Add parsley, salt and pepper.

Transfer cheese to bowl. Refrigerate, covered, until well chilled.

To prepare pinwheels, roll out puff pastry, one sheet at a time, on lightly floured work surface to 12-by-14-inch rectangle. Spread each sheet with half the filling, spreading to edges of three sides and leaving 1/2-inch border of pastry on one long side. Sprinkle bacon on top.

Starting with long side without border, roll pastry into tight coil. Moisten border lightly with water. Press to seal. Freeze 45 minutes to 1 hour until firm.

Preheat oven to 425°. Remove rolls from freezer. Using sharp knife, slice 1/4-inch thick. Arrange on unbuttered baking sheets. Bake in preheated oven 12 to 14 minutes until golden brown.

Serve warm.

Yields about 80.

Note: Logs can be frozen, tightly wrapped, up to 2 weeks. Let stand at room temperature about 30 minutes for easier slicing.

halved
3/4 to 1 tsp. finely chopped fresh or 1/2 tsp. dried rosemary, crushed

Preheat oven to 400°. In small saucepan over low heat, melt butter. Stir in garlic.

Cut bread lengthwise in half. Cut rounded top crust from top half and discard.

Place bread halves cut-side up on baking sheet lined with aluminum foil. Brush each cut side with garlic-butter mixture. Sprinkle with blue cheese. Top with onion. Season with pepper. Sprinkle with olives and rosemary.

If desired, bread can be prepared to this point, refrigerated and tightly covered up to 24 hours.

Bake on center rack of preheated oven 10 to 12 minutes until cheese melts and bread is hot. If baking after refrigerating, bake 12 to 14 minutes. Remove from oven. Cool 2 minutes.

Slice 1 1/2 to 2 inches thick. Serve warm.

Yields 12 to 16 slices.

SAVORY GARLIC AND BLUE CHEESE BREAD

- 1/2 cup (1 stick) butter
- 4 cloves garlic, finely chopped
- 1 loaf (1 lb.) Italian bread, about 12 inches long
- 8 oz. blue cheese, crumbled
- 1 small red onion, halved lengthwise, cut in thin slices
- Coarsely ground pepper, if desired
- 12 kalamata olives, pitted,

Micro Raves

By BETTY SERATI

Snacks span fun choices for month of parties

GARLIC TOAST

Slice 1 clove garlic in half. Toast 2 slices bread on baking sheet in oven. On bread hot from the oven, rub cut side of garlic. Brush lightly with 1 teaspoon olive oil and sprinkle top with 1 tablespoon parmesan cheese.

May brings the usual season of parties, like Mother's Day, graduations and showers.

Parties, of course, mean snacks. Snacks, unfortunately, often mean work for a host or hostess. However, this doesn't have to be.

A snack starts as simply as going to the grocery store and buying a bottle of salad dressing and cut-up vegetables from the salad bar section.

Moving up the scale slightly in difficulty, a party-giver can use a little creativity, convenience foods and the cool cooking of a handy microwave oven to have a dynamic selection of snack foods.

For example, take any variety of snack cracker—rye works well—and top it with deli or canned ham salad, then sprinkle with grated Swiss cheese. On a microwave-safe plate, cook topped crackers at medium (50 percent) power about 2 minutes until the cheese melts. The result is a popular treat—instant ham and cheese on rye.

Anything with Mexican flavor gets the tip of the fiesta sombrero.

To make an incredibly simple dip, spread bean dip with meat directly on a microwave-safe plate. Sprinkle with chopped green onion, if desired. Lib-erally sprinkle with shredded cheddar cheese. Cook on medium power about 3 minutes until cheese melts. Top with prepared guac-mole and sour cream. Serve with tortilla chips.

Of course, nuts and raisins are popular snack items. The following treat combines several favorite munchies and uses the microwave oven to toast the nuts.

This snack will disappear in a flash, whether placed in a large common bowl or in several small containers around the party area. For fun at moving parties outdoors, give each guest a self-closing bag of treats to munch on the move.

Betty Serati specializes in microwave cooking.

SNACK 2 GO

- 1 tbsp. butter or margarine
- 1 pkg. (4 oz.) slivered almonds
- 1 cup cashew halves
- 1 cup peanut halves
- 1 pkg. (4 oz.) roasted sunflower seeds
- 2 cups raisins
- 1 bag (8 oz.) candy-coated chocolate pieces

In 1-quart shallow casserole dish, microwave butter on high power about 30 seconds until melted. Stir in almonds, cashews and peanuts. Microwave on high power 1½ to 2 minutes, stirring occasionally, until toasted.

In large bowl, combine sunflower seeds, raisins and candy. Stir in nuts. Mix well.

Makes about 10 servings.
